AUSTIN

McKool Smith's Austin office is in the heart of one of the nation's most important technology centers. McKool Smith's Austin attorneys include a core group of experienced trial attorneys – with technical degrees, and many with advanced technical degrees.

With a new paradigm emerging in patent infringement cases, clients are demanding that lawyers with significant civil trial experience handle important technology and patent cases. McKool Smith's intellectual property litigation group can meet that demand. In addition to being skilled trial attorneys, the group has the legal and technical expertise to persuade judges and juries on technologically complex issues.
