

Law360's Energy Editorial Advisory Board

Law360 (March 15, 2019, 3:20 PM EDT) -- Law360 is pleased to announce the formation of its 2019 Energy Editorial Advisory Board.

The purpose of the editorial advisory board is to get feedback on Law360's coverage and gain insight from experts in the field on how best to shape future coverage.

The members of Law360's 2019 Energy Editorial Advisory Board are:

Trecia Canty, PBF Energy

Trecia Canty serves as PBF Energy's senior vice president, general counsel and secretary. In her role, Canty is responsible for the legal department and contracts administration. Canty began her career at Cleary Gottlieb in Manhattan after earning her law degree from Columbia University and joined PBF in 2012 from Southwestern Energy. She has played a vital role in multiple financings, the Chalmette and Torrance acquisitions and numerous commercial arrangements.

Eugene Elrod, Latham & Watkins LLP

Eugene Elrod is a partner in Latham's Washington, D.C., office and a member of its energy regulatory & markets and oil & gas industry practices, with a primary focus on federal and state regulation of oil and natural gas pipelines. He counsels clients on regulatory approvals, compliance and transactional matters and represents them in litigation before administrative agencies, appellate courts and arbitrators.

Jerry Farano, Gibson Dunn & Crutcher LLP

Jerry Farano concentrates his practice on transactional matters in the energy industry, advising clients on domestic and international mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, strategic alliances and energy and infrastructure development projects. He has considerable experience with energy-related mergers and acquisitions, particularly in the sale and purchase of renewable, fossil fuel and nuclear generation assets.

Kirstin Gibbs, Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP

Kirstin Gibbs focuses on Federal Energy Regulatory Commission compliance and enforcement issues involving natural gas companies and interstate oil and gas pipeline rates and tariffs. She advises on transactional matters related to the development of new oil and gas infrastructure and negotiates midstream transportation and storage agreements, complex asset management agreements and commodity transactions.

Jeff Hoffner, O'Melveny & Myers LLP

Jeff Hoffner's practice focuses on advising cutting-edge companies involved in acquiring, developing, constructing and financing energy projects — particularly renewable energy projects — throughout the U.S. and around the world.

Sheila Hollis, Duane Morris

Sheila Hollis practices in energy transactional and regulatory law and international and administrative law. She is chair of Duane Morris' Washington, D.C., office, she was the founding director of the Office of Enforcement at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and she was the first woman to serve as president of the Energy Bar Association.

David Runnels, King & Spalding LLP

David Runnels is a partner in King & Spalding's corporate, finance and investments practice group. Runnels counsels renewable and conventional energy industry participants on asset-based financings, project developments, dispositions and acquisitions. He handles business and investment fund formation, joint ventures, private equity investments, debt restructuring, energy outsourcing and derivative transaction.

Elaine Walsh, Baker Botts

Elaine Walsh is a partner in the D.C. office of Baker Botts and chair of the firm's power practice. For over 20 years, she has counseled power producers, utilities, wholesale and retail marketers and private equity clients on mergers, acquisitions, investments and project development in the power, renewables, midstream and mining sectors.

Bill Wolf, Kinder Morgan Inc.

Bill Wolf is vice president and deputy general counsel of Kinder Morgan, and he functions as general counsel to Kinder Morgan's Midstream Group. Wolf has spent his career working in both private practice and as corporate counsel on regulatory, policy, transactional and government affairs matters. Wolf is a graduate of the University of Delaware and Georgetown University Law Center.

William D. Wood, McKool Smith PC

Willie Wood is a principal in McKool Smith's Houston office. He concentrates his practice on the defense and prosecution of U.S. and international commercial, business litigation and arbitration cases, with an emphasis on energy industry matters.

--Editing by Alyssa Miller.