The Firm's Human Resources Department will monitor and enforce this policy.

3. Increase Diversity Within the Firm and Promote Diverse Staffing of Client Matters

One important consideration is to assemble a diverse team of lawyers, and consistent with the multiple considerations that are unique to each matter, to actively look to staff our client matters with a diverse team of lawyers. Client relationship principals will oversee and closely monitor such staffing to ensure this policy is in effect.
4. Enhance our Diversity Recruiting Efforts
 - Law School Recruiting:
 - The Firm is committed to seeking the best law school graduates in the country and recruits at the nation's leading law schools. As part of its recruiting efforts, the Firm will seek to identify and recruit diverse candidates, including minorities, women, and other underrepresented groups. These recruiting efforts will include participating in minority job fairs, diversity-related law school events, and various regional events to encourage students from diverse backgrounds to join the Firm.

- Lateral Recruiting:

- When working with search consultants and scouting for lateral talent, the Firm will reiterate its commitment to diversity and its desire to recruit diverse candidates, including ethnic minorities, women, and other underrepresented groups.

5. Expand Relationships with Organizations for Minorities, Women, and Other Underrepresented Groups

- The Firm will identify and support organizations for minorities, women, and other underrepresented groups, including bar associations, and professional and community organizations. The Firm will also seek opportunities to collaborate with these organizations to strengthen our diversity efforts.

6. Monitor and Measure our Results

- The Firm's Diversity Action Plan will be reviewed annually by the Firm's leadership, including the Managing Principal, Executive Director and the Director of Business Development & Marketing, among others, to review and discuss results from the prior year, and ensure that the Firm is developing and implementing effective strategies to meet its diversity goals.
