

Mike McKool Jr.

BUSINESS LITIGATION

It's after midnight and Mike McKool Jr. is still up, working to make his client's day a lot better.

In the morning, he will walk into a federal courtroom with an argument he knows will prevail. McKool's preparation has given him complete knowledge of every detail in the case, from dates to dollar figures to individual names. He already has considered the arguments his opponent will make, and he is prepared to defeat every objection. In court, attentive jurors find McKool persuasive and his focus compelling.

Today, McKool's client is going to have a very good day.

This is the reason so many successful companies call on Mike McKool and the attorneys at McKool Smith.

Nothing is left to chance. Hard work, courtroom savvy, and painstaking attention to detail are required on every case. The firm's attorneys know they must achieve this level of commitment in order to succeed at McKool Smith, and they take great pride in practicing law at a higher level. More importantly, the firm's clients expect this level of representation.

McKool and his firm handle high-stakes litigation for successful companies, including airlines, energy companies, telecommunications firms, and investment banking houses. The firm also is internationally recognized for protecting the intellectual property rights of the world's leading technology companies from firm offices in Dallas, Austin and Marshall, Texas.

McKool is listed among The Best Lawyers in America, and he has earned selection to D Magazine's Best Lawyers in Dallas four different times. Last year, local attorneys and judges ranked McKool as one of Dallas/Fort Worth's top 15 business defense attorneys, and Texas Lawyer newspaper named him as one of only five "Go To" civil litigation attorneys in all of Texas.
